

STUDIO PATHWAYS

The Art of Transformative Teaching and Learning

Santa Clara County
Office of Education

ARTS LEARNING FOR EQUITY, TRANSFORMATIVE TEACHING AND LEARNING

THE ART OF TRANSFORMATIVE TEACHING AND LEARNING

Experience the art and science of teaching and learning with the dynamic STUDIO PATHWAYS team. Studio Pathways is excited to offer Santa Clara County Office of Education a summer workshop series for educators to learn frames that center equity, racial justice and the essential role of integrating visual and performing arts in education.

A WEEK OF TRANSFORMATIONAL PRACTICE:

JUNE 15-19, 2020

Join a cohort of peers to deepen your practice and pedagogy of Culturally Responsive Teaching and Learning through the Arts. We will spend virtual time together to explore concepts and methods for increasing literacy learning outcomes and social emotional skills.

CULTURALLY RESPONSIVE TEACHING THROUGH ARTS INTEGRATION

- The relationship between the arts and cognitive processing
- How culture drives thinking
- The role of the artist's studio space as a classroom mindset
- Thinking protocols and a framework for creative inquiry

HEALING-INFORMED SOCIAL EMOTIONAL LEARNING

- Learn the relationships between creativity and empathy
- Methods for integrating student narratives for belonging
- Supports for social emotional processing through creative inquiry
- Connection and healing through collaborative arts practices

CREATIVE PRACTICE FOR LITERACY LEARNING

- Creative Dialogue Practice
- Learn components of reading through the visual arts
- Story circles for comprehension and critical practice

Date: June 15-19, 2020

Time: 10 am - 3pm

(individual work/art time)

coursework, reflection/share out)

Location: ZOOM link, TBA via email

Audience: K12 Teachers, Administrators,

Teaching Artists, Art Organizations

Contact: Esther Chong; echong@sccoe.org

Cost: FREE

Registration Link: bit.ly/artssummerpl2020